Author revision  one evidence link

We should retain an approval gate before buying the extra workshop materials. The plan currently includes 24 sets for 30 people. Source: source-facts.docx, paragraph 2 states 24 sets for 30 people and six additional sets pending approval.

The shortage should be reviewed before purchase, because preparing an order is not the same as approval. A clear record can prevent the team from describing an unapproved purchase as complete.

This recommendation is about the fictional workshop described here. It does not establish an empirical effect for real organizations.